Victory Must Wait

The crack of doom rumbles over defeated Germany echoes in the ruined cities and stirs the sleeping dead. This is the end of the murderous fury led by Hitler and Mussolini. Their reign of terror is over.

They conquered territory, but could not conquer men. Victory always lay just beyond their farthest grasp. They set the fires of violence which finally consumed them.

Their ultimate accomplishment was to accomplish the thing they feared most—the unification of their intended victims. They forced history's most powerful military alliance—against themselves.

There is no pity to spare for them, and only a little for the dupes who followed them. If they have lost everything, it is only a fraction of the loss they intended to inflict. Even in defeat, they have spread ruin which comes close to being defeat for the victors.

Italy is through, and Germany is being clubbed into submission. The junction of the Allies in central Germany, the fall of Berlin, the Allied armies sweeping into southern Germany, the imminent collapse in northern Italy, the triumph of the Allies on the sea and in the air—these are the apparent circumstances of a great victory.

But there is no elation over the quivering corpse of the monster that almost consumed Europe. There is only potential satisfaction in this victory—satisfaction that can be realized only if the victors use their opportunity to free the world of the curse of war. Another victory like this could be fatal.

This is the time to remember what we learned from World War I—now, between Germany's defeat and the celebration that ultimately will signalize the victors' pride in their accomplishment.

There was victory in 1918. It was duly celebrated, but the Allies lost what they had won before the scars of battle were healed. They defeated Germany, but they did not defeat their own shortcomings.

That kind of victory is not enough this time. World War II has not been fought merely to defeat Germany, Italy and Japan, but to defeat the war-makers' credo: That war is a good gamble because non-expressors nations probably cannot stand together in time to save themselves.

This war has been fought to reverse that probability—to prove that humanity does not need to kill its best young men and waste its wealth once every generation as a sacrifice to its hates and ambitions. There is no victory short of that. We shall know how World War II turned out a generation from now.

Pepper With Honey

Russian assertiveness in the early stages of the San Francisco parley will stir misgivings about the prospects for harmony, but it also may bolster confidence in the sincerity of the participants.

If the San Francisco conference were to turn into a gathering to adopt pious resolutions, without threshing out problems created by differences of opinion over the proposed terms of postwar security, it would be a foredoomed failure. The problems are there, and they must be handled. There will be friction; if there weren't, the conference would be advertising either its hypocrisy or its inability to come to grips with realities.

There is this thing about the Russian attitude which may be looked at openly, because that is obviously the way the Russians feel about it. The international prestige of the Soviet Union, though established by its military success in the war, never has been formally established in diplomacy. It is necessary to remember that Russian pride was injured during and after World War I and in the events leading up to World War II by a succession of diplomatic affronts that can't be easily forgotten. It was not until the close of 1933 that the United States even recognized the present government of Russia. In the Munich Accord, which was to prove of vital concern to Russian security, the partition of Czechoslovakia was arranged without even the formality of notice to Moscow.

Today, if Foreign Commissar Molotov, acting on behalf of a government which established itself as a major power against strong international opposition, seems to be pressing a little too hard to establish his government's prestige, his action is understandable. It does not belong in the formula of sweetness and light, but neither does the problem of finding a better way to settle disputes than mass murder and destruction. Perhaps if a little pepper is added to the honey, it will be a reminder that bland and pious agreements almost never mean anything anyway.

Mule With Whiskers

The report that M. Molotov declined to recognize a press conference question about Russia's national alcoholic drink, vodka, suggests he may not understand the depth and breadth of American curiosity about exotic products. Vodka, vodki, or wodka, is Russia's best known beverage.

However, as is the case with whisky in the United States, not all Russians are happy about its fame. After the Russian revolution in 1917, the new government tried to enforce general prohibition, with results that foreshadowed the outcome of the same experiment in this country a little later.

There is no mystery about vodka, except Russian ability to handle it internally. As James F. Byrnes summed it up on his return from Yalta, it is like American white mule, "with whiskers". Presumably, Mr. Byrnes made his acquaintance with vodka in its more potable form, too. It is commonly manufactured with a mixture of corn and potatoes, though originally the recipe called for rye and barley malt. Its American counterpart today is corn whisky without coloring or aging. While Americans in military contact with the Russians will be amazed at their fortitude where vodka is concerned, the fact is many a Russian would be flabbergasted if exposed to the stabbing rays of Kentucky moonshine.

Until A Better April

Differences of opinion about weather make conversation and money for vacation resorts, so it would be foolhardy to suggest that this year's April left nothing to be desired. Its defects were painful and obvious.

For one thing, the month fell into place upside down. It was balmy at the beginning, raw and unpleasant at the end. Its temperatures were either unseasonably high or unseasonably low. Trees and bushes came into blossom, then were nipped by frost. Unquestionably, these are the characteristics of bad weather. But wasn't April beautiful? Isn't it easy to forget the bad habits it displayed and think only of its charm?

The fact is, April always is less than we expect it is going to be. That is because we expect too much, of course. So when there finally comes an April that is almost as lovely as imagination had pictured it, that is the April that will do until a better April comes along.

Rest

While remote observers are wondering about imminent events of the immediate future, now that the Allies have trussed up German military power, the fighting men who did the job are thinking of the immediate present. For millions of them, the only thing of consequence now is the rest they were denied during the months occupied by the final great drive into German territory. Not all of them are being released from fighting duty simultaneously, but in the area of the Elbe junction hundreds of thousands of tired men who have known no respite from the grim business of war for longer than they can remember are celebrating one of history's great military achievements by sleeping away an exhaustion that denied many of them even the satisfaction of a job well done.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, May 1.

A MOST perplexing and complicated state of affairs is read from a strange reactionary position of major planets, both in mutual and in lunar aspects. Primarily social, affectional, professional and personal interests seem to be closely related and interdependent, with many surprises and revelations. Finances and promotion, with credit and reputation, as well as advancement and prestige, depend upon the initiative, enterprise and well-directed energies and resources, minus excitement, turmoil and emotional disturbances. Suppress impulses and rash acts.

Those whose birthday it is may reap best and most gratifying results in both personal and business affiliations by exercising logic, sound judgment, astute ability to see into strange, complicated and perplexing problems, while suppressing angry, impetuous and reckless impulses, with firm restraints on the emotions and peculiar drives, in an excess of energy, resources and stubbornness.

Well-organized plans, alert management of hectic situations, with composure, amiability and good will, should ultimately prove prolific, progressive and bring gratifying personal and financial culminations. Affairs of youth and its affectional life call for particular regulation for the happiest rewards.

A child born on this day will be hasty, energetic and impulsive, with ability in many directions. If discipline and control be early inculcated, a happy, popular and successful life is possible.

Sciatica; Various Conditions Which Cause It

By HERMAN N. BUNDENSEN, M. D.

SCIATICA is not a definite disease. It merely refers to a condition in which there is pain along the sciatic nerve. The sciatic nerve runs down the back part of the leg. Thus, there are many conditions which may produce sciatica.

For example, there are disorders affecting the nerve itself, such as neuritis, which may be produced in such diseases as syphilis, diabetes and various forms of poisoning. It develops especially in middle-aged persons. In some instances it is associated with arthritis or inflammation of the joints. Sciatica comes on suddenly, and the main symptom is "shooting" pain in the leg and buttock. In treating the disorder, it is suggested that injections of a local anesthetic or pain-deadening substance, such as novocain, be given along the course of the nerve.

Pain Like Lumbago
Irritation of the nerve at its root, where it comes from the spine, may cause sciatica, and the most common cause for this irritation is a disturbance of one of the discs or round flat pieces of cartilage which are located between the bones of the spine. These are known as intervertebral discs.

Injuries to these discs may be caused by strain which may occur during bending of the trunk, as in lifting some object while bending over. The first symptom is pain in the lower part of the back which persons often call lumbago. Usually a few weeks later, pain along the sciatic nerve develops, which is made worse by any exertion or coughing. In most instances, some form of operative treatment is required to relieve the disorder, although the wearing of a supportive brace or cast, together with sufficient rest, may give relief temporarily.

Another condition which may produce sciatica is known as fibrositis. This means inflammation of the fibrous tissue, which is like scar tissue. This fibrous tissue holds muscles together, and is found also in ligaments and similar tissues.

Fibrositis affecting the tissues in the lower part of the back, buttocks or thighs may be responsible for the development of sciatica. A diagnosis may be made in such cases by finding tender spots in these areas. Sciatica may also develop because of arthritis or inflammation of the joints.

Among the many other causes for sciatica are conditions which produce irritation of the sciatic nerve within the spinal cord. This irritation may be brought about by disturbances of the circulation, tumor growths and destruction of the vertebrae due to such diseases as tuberculosis.

No matter what is the cause of sciatic pain, it is suggested by Dr. John Almeyda, of England, that the treatment at first should consist of rest in bed, the use of pain-relieving drugs and the application of heat—by hot water bottles, an electric pad, or in similar ways. Then an effort may be made to determine the cause of the disorder and specific treatment employed for eliminating the cause.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

By Virginia Chase

EVER since Mrs. Guptill had discovered the secret of the kerosene, she had taken it upon herself to mete out punishment. She saw to it that Mr. Cutter got the dregs of the coffee, the tail of the fish, the neck of the chicken. What was more, she put a padlock on the closet so that he had no more lunches.

I had my grudge against him, too. One day in reaching secretly for the register, I noticed that the copper paperweight was missing. When I had asked him where it was, he would have revealed my own trickery. Besides, he wouldn't have answered.

"I believe he's put it away just to spite me," I complained to my mother.

"Nonsense," she said. "Some transient has picked it up for a souvenir. It didn't amount to anything anyway."

My mother might have been more sympathetic had not her mind been on something else.

One Saturday morning she had filled the oil stove, put in a new wick and set it in the linen closet. On Sunday when she picked it up to take back into the bathroom, she found it dry. The wick had not even been lighted. The stove held a gallon.

Suddenly a question had come to her. What did Mr. Cutter do with all that kerosene when he finished with it?

She went at once to his door and knocked. No one answered. She stepped inside. His chamber work had not been done. Ada liked to leave it until last, so that she could dwell upon it. The receptionist said she used to throw her own dinner to the dog most of the time. It made her sick just to look at food. She was swollen with gas, felt worn out and was badly constipated. She got ERB-HELP and now eats everything in sight. Bowels are regular and she enjoys life once more since taking this medicine.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs, so don't go on suffering!—Get this new medicine. — Lease Drug Store.

Telephone waiting line grows longer

● You cannot see the line waiting for telephone service as you do the crowd at the railroad ticket window, but it is there just the same. There are more than 75,000 persons standing in line in Ohio and more are stepping in every day.

We would like to take everyone out of that line, but we cannot get the facilities—switchboards, cables, wire and instruments. Our shelves are empty, all equipment has been stretched beyond the point for which it was intended, and telephone factories still are working full force on field communications equipment and electrical weapons for the army and navy and are making little for civilian use. We are able to install service only as fast

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY

"Who?" my mother wanted to know. "We've scoured the town."

"Eunice Sawyer. Luther owes me $20. She was asking me the last time I saw her if there wasn't some way they could work it out."

"She'd be real good help," my mother agreed. "Only what?"

"Nothing, only..."

My father was getting provoked. He had his own hands full, and he considered this help-hunting a kind of personal favor he was doing for my mother. "What's the trouble with Eunice Sawyer?" he demanded.

"Nothing's the trouble with her," my mother assured him. "I just wondered if she would be willing to come."

"Why shouldn't she be willing?" he demanded.

"No reason, I guess. Why don't you telephone her?"

He went into the office. In five minutes he was back again. "She'll let us know right away," he said.

Actually it was an hour before she called back. She would see us through the Odd Fellows' dinner, she said, on condition that she could go home on Friday night. Her husband would have her back at 5 in the morning. She could come no other way.

That afternoon my mother called us together. "Eunice Sawyer is going to help us out for two days," she said. "And I want you to be very careful not to let on that I ever told you about having been friendly with Mr. Tapley. As I think it over, it was just gossip anyway and probably made up out of whole cloth."

"Yes, Mama."

"And something else." She hesitated and then went on, trying to be very matter-of-fact. "There is no occasion for Mr. Tapley's knowing she is here. After all, he is a boarder, and not in the least concerned with the running of this place."

"Yes, Mama."

We hadn't been fooled. (To be continued)

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

WITH THE U. S. FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION—A small, pigtailed German girl stood frightened in the middle of a shell-swept street, and to a New Jersey corporal she was just a kid in danger and he risked his life to save her.

Because he was wounded his name may not be used.

The girl was one of a group playing in a Lightenberg street just after 16th regiment doughboys had captured the town.

Needless that the town was filled with German civilians. The Nazis pasted it with a savage barrage of shells. From a vantage point just outside, a self-propelled gun raked the street with shells and machine gun fire.

The screaming children ran to cellars. All except the little girl who stood helpless with terror.

A German mortar shell hit a few yards from her. Steel fragments ripped through her legs and the youngster fell to the ground, her screams drowned out by the blasts of shells.

The young corporal without hesitation dashed to the shelter of a building, another shell burst near the girl and fragments struck the American in the face and chest.

He fell, but slowly retained his feet, blood streaming into his eyes and blinding him so he had to grope to reach the child.

She was unconscious when he reached a combat first aid station, carrying her in his arms as he staggered through the bullet-plowed street. Then he collapsed from shock and loss of blood.

"Those dirty Nazis, shelling their own kids!" exclaimed the Medical corps attendant.

"This fellow makes you proud you're an American."

The boys in the first infantry have captured one German prisoner twice.

Red 1st outfit the same First division had captured him in North Africa more than two years ago and sent him to the United States.

"A very nice country you have, too," he said. "It was nice there. I liked your ice cream very much and was sorry to be included in the prisoner exchange."

Once home the German bounced right back into his own army and was captured again in the Harz mountain fighting.

Lt. George W. Thornbrun of Wichita Falls, Tex., had a platoon of infantry on one side of the road and farther off on the other side Lt. Lloyd Crucius of Berkeley, Calif., was preparing to lead another platoon into a small German town.

There came a sudden loud rumbling and everybody leaped apprehensively. Over his radio Crucius heard Thornbrun's voice:

"There's a tank coming in on my right front. If it is German I am done for. Goodbye."

"The rumbling came nearer and nearer," Crucius recalled, "and then around a bend in the road came a German civilian tearing along with a wagon and a team of horses."

No lieutenant ever looked happier than Thornbrun.

Periodic Checkups Save Repair Bills, Klein Says

If all automobile owners would have their cars inspected by competent mechanics, many parts could be saved and the expense would be much less than later on when the mechanic is required to take more time and use a new part.

The steering connections and wheel bearings need regular tightening or excessive wear is certain to take place. Most of these parts can be tightened several times before wear makes necessary a replacement.

Matt Klein, who operates a specialized garage on Newgarden st., doing alignment and straightening work, believes that anyone who will keep the wheels and other front end alignment parts tightened will save at least 25 per cent on tire wear aside from the savings in replacement parts if this work is neglected.

Another expense that can be avoided is tire wear from unbalanced wheels.

Johns-Manville Affords Right Kind of Insulation

Why should I insulate my home? A quick answer would be to save money, and to be comfortable. In winter an uninsulated home is drafty; expensive to heat.

In summer the uninsulated home is hot, often warmer than outdoors. A well insulated home has more livable space; every room is easier to heat; has warmer bedrooms; more uniform temperatures; and in summer the home is cool and comfortable, often degrees lower than outside. Good insulation is just good sense. You cannot afford to overlook it.

For a free estimate phone 3141, the R. B. Finley Music Co. which is Salem and Columbiana county's representative for Johns-Manville "Blown" rock wool.

Before the service a program of wedding music was played by Miss Kathryn Minth, sister of the groom. The numbers included "Love Dream" (Liszt), "At Dawning" (Cadmian), "I Love You Truly" (Bond) and "O Promise Me" (De-Koven).

Miss Frank Diehl sang two solos, "Still as the Night" (Bohm) and "Always" (Berlin).

The church was decorated with palms and opedestras, and bouquets of spring flowers enhanced the altar.

A wedding dinner was served at the Saxon hall for 30 guests, the immediate families, and friends. There was a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Sprigs of plumage were laid all the way around the center of the table and there were pink place cards. ## Plan Study to Discover Women's Dress Choices

WASHINGTON—What do women most want in the way of essential articles of clothing? Style? Durability? Washability?

The American Home Economics Association intends to find out. The association, which includes a lot of home economics professors, plans a nation-wide study of women's preferences in the way of a few essential items, including house dresses and slips.

Through local study groups it's hoped to discover what women consider most important in low-priced models, according to Lelia Massey, association executive secretary. For instance, do women prefer style or materials that can stand repeated washing if they can't get both?

The association said its study was being made in connection with the new government clothing orders designed to put most of the goods available for clothing into low-priced essential items. Results will be turned over to manufacturers and retailers.

The highest point on which the U. S. flag ever was raised is atop Minya Konk, 24,900-foot mountain peak in Sikang province, China, during the Sikang expedition of 1932.

JAMES IREY'S SHIP IN 17 BIG BATTLES SINCE CHRISTENING

James Irey, Jr., 30, a veteran of more than a year's service on the U. S. S. Preston, has the distinct honor of serving on a veteran U. S. destroyer in more than 17 major battles since the ship's launching Dec. 12, 1943.

Assigned to the tradition laden Preston before she was actually afloat, Fireman Irey has been with the ship in some of the South Pacific's most important sea engagements.

The fourth U. S. destroyer to bear the name, the Preston was built at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Terminal Islands yard. Since its launching it participated in the assault and occupation of Guam, the attacks on Pinau Islands, the first attack on the southern Philippines, the first and second attack on the Visayas group, Philippine Islands, first attacks on Luzon and Manila, and the assault on the Nansai Islands.

Formosa was among other objectives, as was Luzon at the same time the Carrier Princeton was hit by bombs. The destroyer took part in the second battle of the Philippines, extended attacks on Luzon, the Visayan and Camotes sea, the first strikes on the China coast, on Formosa, Nansai Shoto Islands and the first carrier strikes on Tokyo and vicinity in Japan proper.

The destroyer since that time has been engaged in other battles and objectives, but censorship does not permit publication.

Fireman Irey, who enlisted in the Navy in November, 1942, is a former employee of the E. W. Bliss Co. here, where he worked as an apprentice machinist. He serves as leader of an aircraft gun crew when his ship is in battle. He is expected home on leave in July to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Irey, Sr., of Oak st.

Liberated Yanks To Get Home Soon As Possible

PARIS, April 30—Every American soldier liberated from German prison camps will go home "as fast as the Army can get him there," Supreme headquarters announced today.

"In return for the German promise to leave the prisoners in the camps in the path of the Allied advance, rather than take them along on forced marches, United States authorities agreed that all liberated military personnel would be prohibited from taking further part in the war against Germany, either as combat or service troops, and they are sticking by their part of the agreement," Supreme headquarters declared.

No Easing Of Price, Rent Controls Seen

COLUMBUS, April 30—There will be no relaxation of price and rent controls in central Ohio after victory in Europe, says John H. Summers, head of the 34-county Columbus OPA district.

"Official news of victory in Europe," he said in a statement today, "should put every one of us on guard. It should not cause us to relax."

"Rather it should remind us of the period immediately following the armistice in Europe after the first World war. . . . The future can be gloomy and disastrous for all of us if we forget that lesson."

Why the Biggest Job in town carries no pay!

WHAT is the biggest job in your town—in anybody's town.

It's that of the man or woman who will ask you to buy extra War Bonds in the 7th War Loan.

It carries no pay because the people who are doing this work are good Americans. In addition to buying extra Bonds themselves, they're willing to give their time to a job that's as important as anything outside the battle lines.

It's important — and it's big. Making our quotas in the 7th War Loan is a man-sized job for everybody.

Uncle Sam needs 7 billion dollars from individual Americans in the 7th! That's a bigger quota than ever before. It's bigger because this is really 2 loans in 1—last year, by this time, we had bought Bonds in 2 loans instead of one.

And it's bigger because the need is bigger. We're building up a whole new air force, with new jet-propelled planes and even huger bombers. We're building more tanks, mortars, and everything for the increasingly bitter struggle with Japan. And we're paying the mounting cost of victory—taking care of wounded men who are arriving in this country by thousands every month.

So—be ready when one of these War Bond workers comes to you. Open your door, your heart, your purse—for the 7th War Loan.

Help America to make its quota—by making yours!

FIND YOUR QUOTA . . . AND MAKE IT!

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, April 30.—Cautious profit taking stalled many stocks in today's market although real weakness was lacking and assorted issues managed to keep in the plus ranks.

Prices slipped after the opening. Selective buying was resumed and losses running to a point or so were reduced in most cases or converted into gains near the fourth hour. Dealings were moderately active.

Belief that all-out European victory was at hand inspired some selling of the idea the lengthy limb to 8-year peaks might indicate the list had discounted a lot of post-war prosperity.

"Now I can throw away the dirty ones I left in the sink!"

but gambled that the western Allies might be soft enough to let him off with his life.

That may not be the whole story. Himmler is quite well aware that if Britain and America accepted Germany's surrender, while leaving Russia out of the picture, it might cause a rupture of the alliance. He probably has hoped to cause an Allied row while trying to save his own hide.

There's another angle to the Himmler "feeler". He probably figured that if his compromise was accepted, the Allied rejection would give him fresh propaganda with which to spur fanatical Nazis to further efforts. He could tell them the Allies had refused to accept surrender and that it must be a fight to the death.

Anyway, the next move is up to Himmler. Swedish Count Bernadotte, who is reported to have relayed the Nazi offer to surrender to America and Britain, is said to have made a new contact with him.

Himmler can't be getting much comfort out of Mussolini's summary execution. It certainly looks like a hard summer for war criminals, and maybe the Nazi hangman is right in not banking too much on Russian leniency. Apparently he isn't alone in that idea, for Moscow says there has been a wave of suicides among Hitlerite leaders in Berlin.

All in all, Benito wasn't as bad as Himmler, although Il Duce had done plenty to plague his conscience—if he had a conscience. He was the pioneer who inspired Hitler to try the Fascist game, though the Boche Fuehrer quickly outdistanced his pace-maker and got the Italian under his control.

Salem Track Men Sixth At Uhrichville With 18½ Points

Boardman, Newark Tie For Meet Honors As Spartans Take Trophy By Coin Toss

Despite the fact that they dropped five places below their Uhrichville Relay championship form of 1944, Salem High's tracksters turned in a creditable performance at the relays Saturday afternoon, placing in seven of the 16 events and nailing down seventh place in a field of 11 teams.

Coach Rib Allen's Boardman High aggregation tied for meet honors with a strong Newark squad, but when the coin was tossed at the close, Allen's luck held out and the trophy went to the Spartans.

Boardman and Newark each tallied 40 3/5 points. Canton McKinley won second with 31 1/2 points; Louisville fourth with 28 1/2 points; Canton Lehman fifth with 24 points; Salem sixth with 18 1/2 points; Dennison 13 1/2; Struthers 7; and Painesville 5. Uhrichville was seventh with 18 1/10 points.

Last year's Salem squad won the meet by a large margin over a 13 team field.

Boardman's Howard Dilley led the individual meet performers with two firsts—one in the 100 and the other in the 220.

RUSSELL DERRY

NEW YORK YANKEE ROOKIE OUTFIELDER, SHOWING A LOT OF POTENCY AT THE PLATE

His opening day contribution to the Yankee cause was a pair of homers, one with the sacks.

Yankee Russ Derry Clubs Another Homer With Sacks Loaded To Continue Pace

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

Russ Derry may be only a flash in the pan, but if he maintains his present pace, he is certain to set a new record for grand slam homers in one season.

The Yankee outfielder, starting his first regular season in the majors (he played in 36 games last year), belted his second homer with the bases full yesterday as the New Yorkers split a double-header with Washington, winning the first 13-4 and losing the second 2-1 before 35,308 fans.

The record of four in a season is held jointly by Frank Schulte of the Chicago Cubs, Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, Yankees and Rudy York, Detroit Tigers. None hit his first until well into May.

In addition to his base clearing wallop, the Mill Grove, Mo., farmer hit another homer in the opener, making it the second time this season that he has hit two home runs in one game. Homer hitting is nothing new to the 27-year-old Irishman as he led the Piedmont league in 1939 with 40 homers for Norfolk, Va., and banged out 22 for Newark in 1942.

The opener marked the third win without a defeat for New York's Hank Borowy, but Atley Donald, despite a personal homer, bowed to the Nat's Roger Wolff in a second game round duel with each team making only four hits.

The surprising Chicago White Sox finally lost after five straight victories, when they were beaten twice by St. Louis 3-2 and 10-4. Oddly, it was the Sox who ended the Browns' opening season winning streak at nine last year. Bob Munger made his first appearance for the Sox in relief, and bested Thornton Lee in the opener.

Frank Mancuso's ninth inning triple and a long fly by Pinch Hitter Gene Moore accounted for the deciding run in the opener. Jack Kramer, relieving Al Hollingsworth, got credit for the second as Vern Stephens, who homered in the opener, paced the browns with three hits and two RBIs.

Don Buford of Cleveland exchanged 4-0 shutouts the Indians behind Steve Gromek, winning the opener, and the Tigers, with Dizzy Trout, hurling his third win and his second shutout, with winning the second. Trout added his own cause with a home run.
